sweetly, and then the proud little prize-winners were called forward to receive

TRIBUTE TO EDWARD MACDOWELL.

Edward MacDowell was the first American composer to win wide national recognition, standing as a path breaker for those who followed him. He did not consciously try to put America to music, as it were, but so many of his shorter compositions for piano bear titles that reflect his great love of nature and delicate poetic sensibilities. To visit his home and haunts in Peterboro', New Hampshire, is to recognize the source of these titles. MacDowell was one of the first composers to find in the Indian, poetic and rhythmic inspiration, which he used in an orchestral suite. On the other hand, his four sonatas for piano show very decidedly the influence of his Anglo-Saxon ancestry and his leaning toward the folk-lore of the North. His aim was not to write American music, but music. He was an internationalist, but he passed away before nationalism had been beaten into a fury by the war! Even though European musicians fail to find the Americanism that they expect, it is there, nevertheless, in the fancy, imagination, refinement and poetry that he drew from his surroundings.

This reference to Edward MacDowell was made in an article appearing in The Sackbut on "Tradition, Real and Imported."

Nicholas Cosentino, at one time a delivery boy in his parents' store on McCaul Street, this city, is creating quite a stir in Milan by reason of his exceptionally fine voice, which has been likened by many well-known Italian critics to that of the famous Enrico Caruso. Mr. Cosentino has already achieved success in grand opera, taking some of the very roles in which Caruso so excelled, such as the Duke of Mantua in "Rigoletto," at the Grand Opera House and the Carcano Theatre, Milan. Nicholas Cosentino was born at his parents' store on Centre Avenue in 1900. In his school days he sang musical scales with such strength, beauty and ease that he was placed in the choir of the Mount Carmel Italian Roman Catholic Church, later going to the Verdi Conservatory of Music, Milan, where he carried off many honors during his term of five years.

Composers of chamber music are invited to submit manuscripts to the New York String Quartet for performance. This splendid organization presents a new work on almost every program, and will examine carefully every score submitted. Music must be sent to the New York String Quartet, in care of Concert Management, Arthur Judson, Flak Building, New York City.

VETERANS' CLUB HOUSES EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Mayor and Commissioner of Parks Going to Chicago Fair.

TO EXTEND GAS AUDIT

Plan to Use Coliseum for Hockey and Skating
This Winter.

The City Council will be asked at its next meeting to pass a by-law granting exemption from taxation of all War Veterans' clubhouses in the city. This recommendation was made by the Board of Control yesterday, as the only means whereby relief can be given the Veterans. It was urged that the club premises be relieved from the payment of school taxes, but the board said that was beyond the powers conferred under the Act.

The by-law providing for the submission to the people of the question of compelling the Consumers' Gas Company to consent to an audit of its books to ascertain the basic cost of manufacturing gas, was amended to provide that the city obtain power to ascertain every detail of the company's business. The new clause in the by-law reads as follows: "To ascertain the cost of distribution, the amount allowable for plant depreciation, the company's overhead charges, and such other items of current and capital expenditure as may be from year to year incurred."

Mayor Hiltz and Parks Commissioner Chambers were delegated to visit the Chicago Live Stock Fair next week for the purpose of comparing that enterprise with Toronto's Royal Winter Fair, and to obtain pointers, if that is possible.

Despite the suggestion of ex-Mayor T. L. Church, M.P., that the city should sever its connection with the Canadian Deep Waterways Association, the board decided Ald. Summerville and Stewart should represent the city at the annual meeting of that body, to be held at St. Catharines to-day.

Raise Magistrate's Pay.
The board forwarded a recommendation to Council favoring the payment of an additional salary of $1,991 per annum to R. J. Browne, recently appointed assistant police magistrate, to compensate him for the extra work required of him in granting bail bonds. Mr. Browne was appointed to succeed Magistrate Ellis, recently retired on pension, at a salary of $1,600 per annum, and at the time it was stated the remuneration fixed was to cover all his services. Magistrate Ellis drew a yearly salary of $2,600 as magistrate, and an extra $1,000 for issuing bail bonds. He is now receiving a pension of $1,400 per annum.

Controller Cameron was appointed to represent the city on the Children's Aid Society Board in place of Controller Foster, who has resigned.

Rank in Coliseum.
Following a conference between the controllers and a group of citizens interested in sports, it was announced that arrangements had practically been completed for using the Coliseum building at the Exhi-

WOULD-BE ORATORS MUST STUDY VOICE

Prof. Greaves Shows How Faulty Inflection Will Mar Speech.

Prof. W. H. Greaves, M.A., of the University of Toronto, addressed the Empire Club yesterday at the King Edward Hotel on "Public Speaking." Prof. Greaves, who is an instructor at the University on this subject, as well as explaining the faults of public speakers, demonstrated them by clever imitation. He referred to the effect of voice changes and the danger of emphasizing certain features in speaking instead of being natural. He showed that the pitch of the voice was important. In speaking, and with other details was much more important than volume, which came with clear articulation, and proper pitch of the voice. His demonstration by imitating various classes of speakers was very effective in exposing the faults of many would-be orators. Many preachers, he said, were bad speakers, although every class of professional men had about the same proportion of poor public speakers.

President William Brooks presided, and those at the head table were: Dr. D. J. Goggin, F. B. Fetherstonhaugh, E. H. Wilkinson, H. H. Troop, Prof. J. F. McLaughlin, Dean Dewitt, Rev. Dr. E. A. McIntyre, Hugh S. Eays, J. B. Sutherland, Arthur Hewitt and G. W. Hewitt.

MEET TO CONSIDER PROBLEMS OF FAIRS

Canadian Association of Exhibitors Convene in Toronto.

LIVE STOCK FRAUDS

H. S. Arkell Says Animals
Not Pure-bred Are Shown as Such.

Many interesting problems which have a relation to the welfare of the various fairs held in the Dominion were under discussion at the first annual meeting of the members of the Canadian Association of Exhibitors held yesterday in the King Edward Hotel, with the president, D. T. Elderkin, of Regina, in the chair. Representatives of exhibition boards in the chief cities of every province in Canada were in attendance, with the exception of Nova Scotia. The cities represented included Vancouver, New Westminster, Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon, Brandon, Winnipeg, Toronto, London, Guelph, Ottawa, Sherbrooke, St. John, N.B.; Fredericton, N.B., and Charlottetown, P.E.I. Representatives were also present from several of the senior United States fair associations. Thomas Clarkson, of Hastings, New Zealand, who is in Toronto, homeward bound from the Wembley Fair, was also present and spoke.

When President Elderkin, in his address, asked the members as to whether they would make the convention an annual affair, they were unanimously in favor of meeting every year.

In a discussion on "Advertising Exhibitions" in which the speakers included John G. Kent, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and John C. Simpson, president of the World Amusement Service Company, of Chicago, a special address to open the debate was delivered by J. E. Hay, publicity director of the Canadian National Exhibition. Mr. Hay said there was no more complicated advertising proposition on earth than that of advertising a fair. The appeal must be made so as to attract people in all walks of life, all having preferences in things that interested them. There were local likes and dislikes to be considered. For instance, harness and trotting horse meets were not featured at the C.N.E., but there were many fairs where the trotting meets were the very life of the show. Of all the mediums of advertising the newspapers had, so far as the C.N.E. was concerned, proved to be the best. There was an affinity between fairs and the press. Of all community announcements, those concerning the Exhibition were the first in the minds of the newspaper readers. Premier Ferguson had paid a tribute to the worth of fairs when he instituted an annual dinner. Mr. Hay suggested that the Premier of Ontario go further and establish a publicity department for the fair fairs of the province.

J. C. Simpson, of Chicago, reported that when he had to do with ad-don on the question. Those taking part in the discussions included J. MacKenzie, of New Westminster, B.C.; Col. Sydney E. Francis, secretary of the Sherbrooke Exhibition, Quebec, and B. L. Richardson, secretary-manager of the Calgary Exhibition, Alberta.

Following a debate on "Conditions for allocating prizes to breeders' associations," the convention passed the following resolution: "That grants given by breeders' associations be either on the basis of profits to the money paid by the various fairs associations or as a contribution towards the classifications already prepared by the various fairs associations."

Would Graffiti the Prince.

At the banquet in the evening, Dr. H. W. Waters, who represented the Canadian National Exhibition at Wembley, pointed out that there can be over-advertising, and he thought the English fair offended in this direction, particularly in connection with the advance posters. These posters were remarkable works of art, since each one was produced by a member of the Royal Academy, but the effect was to induce people to expect much more than they could hope to see. Still, he hoped that Wembley would be carried on another year, and he was certain it would be if the Prince of Wales would ask for it. The Prince, he felt, is the greatest herald of Empire within the Empire, and if the Prince would but ask it all the dominions, with the possible exception of New Zealand, would send exhibits for another year. New Zealand could hardly be expected to do that, since it is holding an international fair of its own, with a very limited local population to appeal to.

Mr. J. C. Simpson, insisted that fairs, to be a success, must have some fundamental purpose, and this purpose must be recognized by the management and must be strictly adhered to and fostered. The primary purposes of all fairs, he believed, should be education, inspiration and entertainment.

At the dinner the larger cities were represented as follows: Vancouver, H. S. Rolston and W. G. Fowler; New Westminster, B.C., D. E. MacKenzie; Calgary, E. L. Richardson and G. F. Herbert; Edmonton, W. J. Stark and P. W. Abbott; Regina, D. T. Elderkin, H. A. Knight, James Grassick and H. M. Van Valkenburg; Saskatoon, J. Calder, Robert Thomas and S. W. John; Brandon, James Rietle; Guelph Winter Fair, R. S. Stephenson; London, W. D. Jackson and J. H. Saunders; Ottawa, J. K. Paley, T. Sidney Kirby, R. Dowler, and R. B. Fraith; Sherbrooke, Que., S. E. Francis; St. John, N.B., H. A. Porter; Fredericton, N.B., W. S. Hooper and William Cruickshank; Charlottetown, P.E.I., Charles R. Smallwood and James Paton.

SAYS BANK DIRECTORS GAMBLLED WITH HOPE

Crown Prosecutor Holds Stewart Had Share of Responsibility.

$20,000,000 TO GUARD

Judgment Is Reserved by Judge Coatsworth Untill Dec. 16.

After a trial lasting for two weeks, the hearing against J. F. M. Stewart, director of the Home Bank, came to a close yesterday and judgment was reserved by Judge Coatsworth until December 16. The whole of the day was given over to the arguments of the counsel, and in closing the case yesterday afternoon, Mr. D. L. McCarthy, Crown Prosecutor, emphasized the fact that when a director accepts a position on the board of a bank his first duties were toward the shareholders and the depositors, and not toward himself, his friends, or the companies in which his friends were interested.

Mr. McCarthy went on to point out that the affairs of the Bank for the past six years were a process of "gambling in the hope that the assets could be sold." At the same time, he insisted, the Bank was paying dividends on the assumption of that hope. He could "not conceive of anything more scandalous" than the manner in which the interest accounts were treated during the last year of the Home Bank's operation, while Mr. Stewart was on the Board, and he added that the "gambling with hope" was wrong every time, and that eventually the time came when, through treating book entries as cash, there was not enough money to go around and the Bank had to close its doors. That he maintained, was the sort of thing which continued during the period Mr. Stewart was on the board.

With regard to that, Mr. McCarthy's attitude was that no man needed to accept a position as director of a bank. There was no obligation upon him to do so; but having accepted such a post of responsibility, it was no excuse for him to say that he was so engrossed with his own affairs that he did not have the time to look into the affairs of the bank, for which he had accepted the responsibility.

Responsible for $20,000,000.

"It must have been a perfectly simple thing for Mr. Stewart or any other director to look up the books and statements of the Bank and discover that since 1916 the deposits had increased from eight or nine million dollars to around twenty millions," the Crown continued. "That was the sum for which he accepted responsibility; and I venture to say that if all the assets of all the directors were added together they would not amount to that sum. There were twenty millions of money held in trust for the public, and I must say that if Mr. Stewart was too much engrossed in his own affairs to keep a close eye upon that twenty million deposit of the public, then he was or manager of the Bank, had told him such a thing as that, then your Honor would be entitled to take it into consideration." Mr. McCarthy replied, "but there is not a word of evidence to that effect."

After reviewing the transactions of the Home Bank with the various companies in which Mr. Stewart was interested, Mr. McCarthy asked: "Is a business man appointed as director of a bank to obtain credits for himself and for his friends, or to look after the interests of the depositors and the shareholders?"

Stewart's Borrowings.
Mr. Stewart, he recalled from the evidence, became a director on June 13, 1922; he took his seat on the Board on June 20, and, according to the minutes which were presented to the court, the first transaction on that date was the consideration of the application of the Mercantile Securities, which was practically Mr. Stewart, for a loan of $186,025.74. At the same meeting the Manufacturers' concern borrowed $50,000.

"That indicates that at the first meeting which Mr. Stewart attended as director, he took care of two of the companies in which he was interested," the Crown Prosecutor continued. "And at the next meeting, at which Mr. Stewart was present, he took care of the Port Credit Brick Company and the Point Anne Quarries, both of which had their credits renewed for one year, and in both of which he was interested."

No he asked the Judge to consider whether a bank director should have his first interest for the public or for his own affairs. Mr. Hellmuth contended that his client was not negligent in failing to go to the books of the Bank and inform himself upon all the details of various transactions. Such an obligation, he maintained, would be an intolerable burden. The reply of the Crown was that under the Bank Act the directors had the power to employ men whose duty it was to keep them accurately and fully informed as to the affairs of the Bank, and he ventured to say that, with all the officials available at the head office, it would have been possible for an experienced business man to inform himself within twenty minutes as to the actual condition of affairs. Mr. McCarthy concluded his case by declaring that there was not only negligence on the part of Mr. Stewart, but that it was wilful.

The charges against R. P. Gough, the fourth director of the bank to face trial, will open this forenoon.

Co-operate for Benefit of Newsboys of Toronto

Representatives of the newspapers, athletic clubs and boxing officials were the guests of the Lions' Club at a largely-attended luncheon held in the King Edward Hotel yesterday afternoon, with the president, Dr. Angus A. Campbell, in the chair.

John Gibson outlined the activities of the Lions at the Gamebridge Camp during last season, it having been organized mainly for the benefit of the newsboys of the city. He paid a tribute to the newspaper representatives, sportsmen and members of various athletic clubs for their assistance in staging the boxing tournament, the proceeds of which had made possible the carrying on of the work in erecting the bunkhouse and giving 150 boys a fine holiday.

Charles Ring submitted the financial statement, showing a net profit of $2,167.23 in connection with the newsboys' boxing tournament. Other speakers were Harold Story, chairman of the Social Service Committee, and P. J. Mulqueen.

A feature of the afternoon was the presentation to W. Armstrong of a year's membership ticket in the Lions' Club, and a silver tea service. The presentation was made by the chairman on behalf of the members. Community singing varied the proceedings, and an enjoyable time was spent. Moving pictures of the Gamebridge Camp were also shown on the screen.

Among the guests present at the head table were George McTaggart, Mail and Empire; William Elder, Telegram; P. J. Mulqueen, W. A. Hewitt and R. Hayes, Star; H. G. Glimmer, Globe; A. W. Steele, Fred Johnston; A. W. Steel and Ed. Hughes.

English and old British folk songs and a musical choir of boys.

Dr. Ham made a trip to England last summer to secure some new and desirable compositions for this program and to engage the famous London Quartet as assisting artists. There are two hundred voices in the chorus, selected after careful testing under exacting conditions, and at the rehearsal last Monday night an unusually fine tone was in evidence, despite the fact that the only people in Toronto who have no colds just at present are those who have the "flu."

Toronto Oratorio Society.

The Toronto Oratorio Society, now in its fourteenth year under the leadership of Dr. Edward Holmes, has as its chief aim the giving of a strictly first-class performance of Handel's "Messiah" every year, either as the main offering of the season or in some special concert. During the present season the "Messiah" will be given on Dec. 20 at St. Paul's Church, Bloor Street East, with Mr. T. J. Crawford at the organ, the proceeds going to the Hospital for Sick Children. While Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" will be given on Feb. 18 in Massey Hall, with the Cleveland Orchestra, under Mr. Sokoloff, and several soloists to be announced later, this orchestra will also give a matinee concert without the chorus.

About 200 selected voices make up the singing strength of the society, and rehearsals have been in progress since early October at the rate of one each week, more frequent practice meetings will be held just before the concert, of course. Past seasons from the other hall at Toronto Conservatory last Tuesday night promised great things for the future, with particularly choice quality in the tenor section.

Canadian Operatic Society.

The Canadian Operatic Society, founded for the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, aims at becoming a national institution which will eventually produce grand opera. It was reorganized two years ago, so that those interested in supporting this type of music may now become shareholders, with very advantageous life privileges. Rehearsals began last Monday for the society's fifteenth production during the last week in February at the Princess; this will be "The Yeomen of the Guard," by Gilbert and Sullivan, which the composers themselves considered their best work. There are two rehearsals a week at present, and will be three a week later, in addition to a separate weekly rehearsal for the principals, all held either at the Hambourg Conservatory Hall or the Musicians' Temple. The chorus and company number 70, with the Savoyard orchestra of 25 pieces in addition. Mr. Reginald Stewart is musical director for the performance.

Eaton Choral Society.

The Eaton Choral Society, made up exclusively of employees of the T. Eaton Company, spends five months in rehearsals. It meets for supper in one end of the Georgian Room from 6 to 6.5, and then practices at the other end of the room from 6 to 8 under the leadership of Reginald Stewart. The sixth annual concert will be given on Feb. 12 in Massey Hall by the chorus, 200 strong, with the assistance of a 70-piece orchestra made up of Toronto players, and Florence Macbeth as soloist, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company. The chief number on the very interesting program will be "The Revenge," by Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, who died last March.

(To Be Continued Next Saturday)

At the evening service tomorrow the choir of the River Street Baptist Church will give a new work, "The Light of the World," by Canadian. This cantata was awarded the straw bridge and Clapham prize in 1924 at Philadelphia, and has not been open for public performance until this season. The soloists will be Frank H. Blackford, soprano; Mrs. Russell Marshall, Mrs. Florence Kenton Box, Lucie Davidson and Austin Douglas.

G. Scott Macdonald, pupil of Paul Well, gave a piano recital at the Toronto Conservatory last Saturday. He showed himself a promising, well-trained and proficient student, with much of his teacher's manner.

The String Quartet Club met last Sunday evening at the Unitarian Church on Jarvis Street, and the Hart House String Quartet played a program entirely different from the attractive one previously announced. It was a much less inspired performance than that of the preceding Thursday concert. The players gave satisfaction to the audience, however, and were warmly applauded.

SAVAGE CHIEFTAIN
From New Group of Supposedly Authentic Type in the First Tribe. Motion Picture at Massey Hall Next Week.

The Associated Players of the Margaret Eaton School gave a capital performance of "The Young Person in Pink" last Saturday night. The large audience was inclined at first to be frivolously inattentive, but was soon wholly absorbed in following the amusing lines, numerous attractions and unusually capable character delineations. Audrey Josselyn, Josephine Harrington, Helen Parsons and Grant Richards played admirably, but the whole cast deserves high praise.

The Vaughan Glasse Christmas pantomime at the Uptown Theatre is reported to represent an outlay of immediately £4,000, and the theatre will be closed on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in order to permit the necessary alterations and elaborate preparations. Seventy-five people will take part in the fifteen scenes of "Mother Goose," and then this will be followed by "The Gingerbread Man." The opening performance will be a matinee on Christmas Day.

At a meeting of the New Symphony Association last Wednesday evening at Colonel A. E. Gooderham's residence, the efforts of two new committees were appreciated, one to assist the executive officers, and the other, under Mrs. J. W. Polworth as convener, to divide the city into districts and canvass it thoroughly for subscriptions. The great need for assistance of this sort was demonstrated by the treasurer's report which showed some £100,000 worth of receipts of £1,000 for the first five concerts this season, over £100,000 expenses having been paid.

first novel. The story moves almost from coast to coast and is filled with atmosphere and color of different parts of Canada. Olaf Hansen enters the scene in the late 'eighties as a youth from England, of Norwegian parentage, and we follow his career for twenty years as he leaves Canada and becomes a good citizen, using the natural gifts showered upon him and having a lot of fun as he goes.

The story opens in Jericho, in the Western Ontario peninsula, probably Kent County, close to Plattsburg, which one identifies as the City of Chatham, passes in Toronto, Montreal and Nova Scotia, and finishes in the West, somewhere in the Saskatchewan Valley. This movement gives diverse conditions, which as a rule are described with much faithfulness. It is apparent that the author is writing generally from first-hand observation, and some of the scenes are probably the best pictures in fiction of the particular Canadian life described. For example, the rail splitting, the country store, the revival meetings, the tar and feather episodes and the life in the negro quarter of Plattsburg—these have the smack of reality, with a good deal of humor thrown in.

We watch Olaf grow from the shaggy-haired flaxen youth of seventeen, so tall and thin he is called "Spikes." His portrait is full length, and we learn to his ambitions, his readiness at school, his desire to be somebody worth while, and his real to know Canada and to live as a Canadian should. He had more than brains; he had muscle and skill, as we read in the humorous description of the tar and feathers incident. He had magnetism, too, and the aid and affection he enjoyed for a time from saddle Harlow, the school teacher, leads to expectation of a romance which was diverted to other channels. Somehow we feel disappointed that the romantic disappears from the scene so early, for she was well drawn, and an estimable character whose full life deserved recording.

Here is a picture of a village Dominion Day which will come back as the real thing to many a reader who was born in Ontario:

"The celebration was to be in three parts: speeches, band music and supper in the hickory grove, sports on the timothy meadow round which at his own expense Peppercorn had scraped a half-mile track; concert at night in the cheese factory adjacent to both. A hundred horses were tied on the rear edge of the grove, on the front of which, centring on the platform and the long tables on both sides, were assembled the fashion, manhood and beauty of Jericho. From the crotch of a young maple Olaf saw what to him was an amazing spectacle, varying in patterns of beauty as light rippled over the crowd. Ridged and flowered hats, muslin blouses, calicoes, ginghams, plain blouses, old-fashioned shawls, buttoned and buttoned skirts, calico and leg boots and springbottom trousers, flaming cravats and swanking silver-plated chains—of all young blades that could be least like a dude."

The Village Pond-Rah.

Peppercorn—all, there is a character for you! He was the village pond-bah dictator and tyrant, making the life of many unpleasant in details until of pur him under the school pump and surrounded his balding head. Hooper, the "rebel" leader among university students in 1883, is a character worth further development. Mrs. Sarah Shann, the Irish woman who kept one boarder, Sadie—in Plattsburg's negro quarter, is full of color and attractiveness. The Western scenes are filled in from close knowledge. The pages from Montreal and Nova Scotia are more sketchy, but add the general picture. The brief glimpse of Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in real life could have been extended to advantage. The dialogue is snappy and crisp, and the whole story is crisply and entertainingly told.

"YON TOWN O' MINE" By Logan Weir (Olympic Press) Price, 12

"To folk of Scottish blood, who love the fast fading Lowland dialect. And to sturdy Scots, wherever they may be, who understand the kindly nomenclature of curlers on the job."

Such is the dedication of the author of "Yon Town o' Mine." May we say here that it will have a wider vogue and a greater appeal than even the dedication envisaged. "Yon Town o' Mine" is a volume of descriptive sketches of the life and times of the early Scottish pioneers of Ontario. It is a faithful transcript of these. Many of the scenes are so vivid that the reader can almost see the scene laid fields, so that the accuracy of the letter press is of a high order. It is a happy blending of history, travel, economic and general interest, all seeming to run along in one story, broken by authors' names. The literary style is good, and marked with considerable vigour and human interest. The illustrations are particularly well chosen, the more important scenes by objects being in color and the remainder in black and white, and made with an eye to artistic values.

"It is not of the nature of a guide-book, but rather a philosopher and friend, ready to take readers by the hand and conduct them all over the globe without wearying them with cumbersome details," says Sir Harry Johnston in his introduction, and the description is apt.

Europe's Latin countries occupy the bulk of the first volume—France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Italy and Spain being the subjects—while in the second volume we have the balance of Spain, Portugal, the Barbary States, coast of the Mediterranean, Great Britain and Ireland, Newfoundland, West Indies and India. An example of the style may be seen in the following extract from the section on the Canadian Rockies.

"The Rockies are a surprise. They are unlike anything a stranger had expected to find. One morning emerging from our hotel at Calgary, we spy a patch of white cloud quite far up in the sky. We expect to see it after a time float away, but it remains. Its fluffy and something luminous about it begin to pique our interest, and then, due to some atmospheric change, no doubt, the luminosity increases, is changed until what we have taken for a cloud rises as inspiring, like a wall crowned with snow-striped, fan-like summits, up from the base of the mountain. In certain days they seem so near that new arrivals have been known to get out to walk to them between breakfast and tea-time. Yet they are sixty miles away!"

Here is an example of the chatty description of France:

"The French pride themselves on their sentiment, and it is common to see bearded men hugging and kissing each other with torrents of tears on railway platforms. They also talk and sing incessantly of love. But they do not allow love or even sentiment to be considered in connection with matrimony. The old formula, 'A marriage has been arranged' is literally true in their case. It is arranged by parents or friends, in many cases by professional or at least interested go-betweens, with no more idea of romance than attaches to the sale of a house or a herd. And the odd thing is that the system answers."

"THE WATER BABIES" By Charles Kingsley. Illustrated by Mabel Lucie Attwell (London, Raphael Tuck & Sons.)

Among the Christmas editions this new issue of Kingsley's classic is one of the daintiest. The illustrations, though simple, catch the spirit of the beautiful story of Tom and his wonderful adventures, and even the grown-up reader finds his interest for the story recaptured.

Another issue by Tuck is "Madame Tossand's, The Palace of Enchantment," describing the famous home of the wax figures in old London. There are also many beautiful calendars and Christmas cards, including the cards used by the King and Queen and other members of the Royal family. There is always a distinction about the Tuck cards, and this year they seem even finer than usual.

"HEAD GUEST" By Captain Percival Christopher Wren (London, John Murray.) Price, 1s 6d.

"Head Guest." In the main a tale of the French Foreign Legion, requires 410 pages to tell it, and not one page superfluous.

"The affection disguised by a rough exterior, of 'Head' Geste and his brother, Digby and John, one for the other, affection made manifest by each tacitly admitting theft of which each thought the other guilty, is a lot of sentiment that will appeal to the most matter-of-fact reader.

The pyrotechnic disappearance of a valuable sapphire known as the "Blue Water," is responsible for the brothers Geste, who were among the spies, leaving home, each arming himself into the belief that by so doing he would shield the other. This was in Sweden, where the three found themselves in the service of France. From that time on there was "something doing" every moment.

The tale carries the reader through chapter after chapter of events, dramatically specific events, that thrill to the core. If all romantic in the tale of the adventures, dis-

MUST STAY IN JAIL UNTIL FINE IS PAID

Motorist Named Rich
Guilty of Negligence Says
He's Penniless.

Frederick J. Rich, who had been convicted on a charge of criminal negligence, was by Judge Denton yesterday not only sentenced to one month in jail, but was also fined $100 with the proviso that he must remain in jail until the fine be paid.
This additional penalty was laid by His Honor under the section of the Criminal Code whereby in addition to a jail term a convicted man can also be fined and required to stay imprisoned up to a period of five years in default of payment.

Rich had been convicted by a Sessions jury on the criminal negligence charge, the Crown having alleged that the accused while intoxicated had run down and injured a woman with his car on the Lake Shore Road near Sunnyside and had driven off without stopping. Subsequently the woman had been given judgment by default to the extent of $1500 against the motorist. It was stated yesterday that Rich, despite his name, now was penniless.

CASES OF PERITONITIS UNDER NEW TREATMENT

Discovery of Dr. W. A.
Cotain May Have Far-
reaching Results.

To a young Toronto doctor, W. A.
Cotain, of 134 Arlington Avenue, has fallen the distinction of having evolved a new surgical operation which may have far-reaching results in the treatment of peritonitis. English surgeons have spoken in terms of the highest praise of his discovery and medical opinion generally is agreed that Dr. Cotain has achieved some highly important research work.

In the past it was thought that the poison of peritonitis was absorbed in the blood vessels of the automen. Dr. Cotain, working with the late Dr. John Mallock, on cases of peritonitis formed another theory, namely, that the poison was carried through the lymphatics into the thoracic duct, to empty into one of the big veins in the left side of the neck. Operations on animals suffering from peritonitis proved successful and in October, 1922, the technique of the operation having been perfected, a successful operation was performed on a girl of nine in the Sick Children's Hospital. This seemingly hopeless case was cured and the girl has been in perfect health since.

Dr. Cotain formed his hypothesis in 1921 and permission was secured to carry out research work at the University under the direction of Prof. Primrose and later of Prof.
Clarence Starr. Dr. Starr deprecates the announcement of the discovery to the general public as a "cure all" for peritonitis, while Dr. Herbert Bruce stated that while Dr. Cotain had made a distinct contribution to the knowledge of peritonitis he did not think at the present time the discovery would be applicable to very many cases, but would be chiefly of use in cases termed "hopeless" previously.

Dr. Cotain has given the name
"Lymphaticotomy" to the operation
he has evolved, which means a drainage of the lymphatics.

TEN CONGREGATIONS DECLARE FOR UNION

Nine Show Unanimity, is Word Received by Joint Committee.

News was received at the bureau of the Joint Committee on Church Union yesterday from Saskatchewan that the Presbyterian Church at Gravelbourg had voted unanimously to enter the United Church of Canada. The Presbyterian Church at Sutherland, Sask., decided by a vote of 23 to 2 to go forward into the union. First Presbyterian Church Eramosa, Guelph Presbyterian, Ont., at a congregational meeting, largely attended, unanimously decided to enter the union without a formal vote. St. Andrew's Church, Mattiwa, in the Presbytery of North Bay, at a largely attended congregational meeting decided to enter the union without a vote. The decision was unanimous.

FOUR YOUTHS CHARGED WITH SHOPBREAKING

Alleged to Have Stolen
Skates From Factory—
Several Other Arrests.

Charged with breaking into W.
H. Dunne's skate factory, 143 Macdonell Avenue, on Dec. 18, last, and stealing eight pairs of hockey skates, four youths were arrested last night
by Detective Graves and P. Q's Brown and Hawkins. All the alleged stolen property has been recovered.
Those arrested are; William Nasmith, Northcote Avenue; Charles
King, aged 20, Empress Crescent;
Charles Murphy, aged 19, Peel
Street and Gerald Foley, aged 18, no home. There is an additional charge against Foley, that of theft; it being alleged that he stole some articles from the home of Mr.
O'Brien, 84 Dunn Avenue, some time ago. The quartette, the police say, entered the Dunne factory by forcing a rear door.

Alleged to have stolen 14 Bibles and some dictionaries from the Robert Simpson store, Norman Wil-lamson, Ontario Street, was taken into custody yesterday afternoon by Detective-Sergeants Tuft and Stewart.
The Bibles, the police say, were valued at from $5 to $15 each and Williamson was selling them for 15 cents each.

George Bolton, Spadina Avenue,
was taken into custody last night by Detective-Sergeants Duggan and Greenlee on a charge of attempted fraud.
Bolton is alleged to have received four pay cheques totalling $61, belonging to F. Carter, a C.N.R. employee, who is working on construction work outside the City, and to have attempted to pass them through a downtown bank.

HOME BANK TRIALS TO BE LONG DRAWN OUT

Not Likely Conspiracy Charges Will be Heard at Winter Assizes.

OBSTACLES IN WAY Cases Before Judge Coatsworth May Occupy Court Until February.

It is now considered more than likely that the trial of the Home
Bank directors, as well as M. J.
Haney, at one time president of the bank, on charges of conspiracy, may not be heard until next Spring.

This situation has been the result of the unexpected length taken by the hearing of the charges laid under the Bank Act, which commenced early last October before Judge Coatsworth and which it was fully expected would have been concluded well before the end of the year.

On account of the defence having sprung a surprise in the trial of Richard P. Gough by putting the former vice-president of the bank in the witness box, however, it is in the witness box itself will last until the end of the year at least, and
perhaps some days beyond, as the accused may be followed in the box by other witnesses.

The trials of S. Cagney, Wood, K.C., and F. J. B. Russell are yet to follow the Gough case. As the trials of the other directors have averaged three weeks in duration they before this trial itself will last until
the end of the year at least, and
perhaps some days beyond, as the
accused may be followed in the
box by other witnesses.

Causes of Delay.
It will be recalled that the conspiracy charges which were to come before the Fall sitting of the Criminal Assizes for jury trial, met with a double setback. This was due in the first place because the directors were at the same time undergoing trial on the charges under the Bank Act before a County Court judge, and also to D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special prosecutor for the Crown,
being fully engaged in these County Court cases.

Following this, the indictment was amended to cope with the new situation, and the names of M. J. Haney added to the amended indictment.
Trial on the conspiracy charges was then traversed to the Winter Assizes, which are scheduled to open early next month. With the Bank Act cases before Judge Coatsworth now likely to run well into February and possibly into March, however, there appears to be little chance of the conspiracy hearing at the forthcoming Assizes.

It would mean that the Home
Bank conspiracy charges for jury trial could not be heard before the opening of the Spring Assizes. But in the meantime appeals against sentence and conviction imposed by Judge Coatsworth are due to be heard and may even have the effect of preventing the hearing of the conspiracy charges until next Fall.

42, of 21 Greenwood Avenue, was burned about the hands and face, and many of the fingers, who were in a panic, sustained bruises while rushing for the exit. Penn was attended by Dr. Martin, 1432
Queen Street east, and was later conveyed to St. Michael's Hospital.
Little damage was done by the fire, which was caused by a short circuit
in the controller box.

RADICALS ARE OPPOSING GIBBONS AND ROBBINS

L.R.P.A. Shows Hostility to Street Railway Men's Union.

An open split in the ranks of Labor in municipal politics became apparent last night in the Labor Temple, where, at a meeting held in the assembly hall by the radical Labor Representation Political Association, the workers were urged to ignore the names of W. D. Robbins and Joseph Gibbons on the Board of Control ballot paper and vote solely in the interests of the L. R. P. A. candidates, James Simpson and James Birke.

The charge was made by Mr.
Birke that although the Toronto
Street Railway Men's Union was supposed to be affiliated with the L. R.
P. A., it had "birked its duty by ignoring L. R. P. A. candidates in the past. The Labor Party would now turn around and ignore the Street Railway Union's candidates, Gibbons and Robbins.

It was announced that 250 of the 400 volunteer workers were now actively engaged in a house-to-house canvass of voters throughout the city in the interest of the L. R. P. A.
candidates for Board of Control,
City Council and Board of Education. It was expected that the full strength of the volunteer workers, under the leadership of a central campaign committee, as well as ward committees, would be under way this week-end, and that practically every voter in the city would be reached.

James W. Gill, aldermanic candidate in Ward 5, captured Controller Cameron, whom he accused of moving to reduce the civic rate of pay from $60. to $45. per hour. The candidate at the same time found fault with the city for not dealing adequately with the unemployment situation.

In a Labor manifesto, which it was decided to distribute to every voter that could be reached, the various candidates nominated by the Association are listed. The manifesto strongly urges the abolition of military training in the schools.

The L. R. P. A. have opened central committee rooms at 81 Bond Street.

The West Presbyterian Church
Young People's Society gave an ex-evening. The assisting artists were Mr. Joseph Russell, tenor; Mrs. Car-ray, contralto; Miss Muriel Lomax, soprano; Mr. Edgar Smith, baritone;

Miss Clara Specker, vocalist; Mr. W. L. King, accompanist, and the West Presbyterian quartette. Mr.
W. D. Loudon, president of the society, was chairman. There was a large attendance, and at the close a hearty vote of thanks to the visiting artists was passed.

as follows: "Notice is hereby given
